Re: Infringement of Herman Miller's EAMES® Trademark and Trade Dresses

To the Person of Highest Authority:

I write to follow up on the letter we sent you on August 19, 2013, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit A. On August 20, 2013, you responded to our first letter by email, requesting until September 18, 2013 to give a substantive response, and inviting us to contact you again "if required." We responded by email on August 21 and September 20, 2013, but never heard from you again. A copy of these emails is attached as Exhibit B.

As explained in our prior letter, we represent Herman Miller, Inc. ("Herman Miller"), which owns uncontested trademark rights in the EAMES® name, the configuration of the EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman, and the design of the EAMES® Aluminum Group™ and EAMES® Soft Pad™ furniture, as well as the publicity rights to the name and likeness of Charles Eames as used in connection with furniture.

When we sent our first letter, you were advertising for sale several knockoff items that infringe Herman Miller's EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman and EAMES® Aluminum Group™ and Soft Pad™ furniture trade dresses, and were also making unauthorized commercial use of the "Eames," "Charles Eames," and "Ray Eames" names. We explained that these were infringements of Herman Miller's rights, and demanded that you cease and desist from these infringements, among other things.

Even after receiving and acknowledging our letter, however, your blatant infringement of Herman Miller's rights continues. Indeed, if anything, your infringement has grown even more brazen, with your website now explaining in detail the lengths to which you have gone to mimic Herman Miller's trademarked designs. See Exhibit C. Moreover, given that your website makes clear that it is intended to advertise and sell your infringing products in this country, United States trademark law will apply to your sales here, and likely to your Canadian sales as well. See, e.g., Aerogroup Int'l v. Marlboro Footworks, 955 F. Supp. 220 (S.D.N.Y. 1997) (applying Lanham Act to trade dress infringement by Canadian company in Canada).

To the Person of Highest Authority:

Our firm represents Herman Miller, Inc. ("Herman Miller"). Since the 1940s and until his death, Charles Eames designed furniture for Herman Miller. After years of selling furniture designed by Charles Eames, Herman Miller registered EAMES as a trademark (see Exhibit 1, Registration No. 1,187,673), and that registration is now incontestable. Herman Miller also is the owner of the rights of publicity to the name and likeness of Charles Eames for use in connection with furniture. (See Exhibit 2, California Registration 1995-018.)

Further, because of Herman Miller's decades-long continuous production of the EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman, the public has come to associate the configuration of the EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman with Herman Miller and only Herman Miller. In other words, Herman Miller has acquired trade dress rights in the configuration of the EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman. Indeed, the United States Patent and Trademark Office ("PTO") has recognized such; Herman Miller has registered the configuration of the EAMES® Lounge Chair as a trademark and that registration is now incontestable (see Exhibit 3, Registration No. 2,716,843).

Additionally, the public associates the design of the EAMES® Aluminum Group™ and EAMES® Soft Pad™ furniture with Herman Miller and only Herman Miller (see Exhibit 4, Herman Miller Brochure). Herman Miller also has registered the design of the frame of those furniture pieces as Herman Miller's trademark and that registration is incontestable (see Exhibit 5; Registration No. 3,105,591). All variations of the EAMES® Aluminum Group™ and EAMES® Soft Pad™ furniture operate as Herman Miller's trade dress.

You are currently advertising for sale several knockoff items that infringe Herman Miller's EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman and EAMES® Aluminum Group™ and Soft Pad™ furniture trade dresses. Specifically, you offer for sale and sell knockoffs that use these trade dresses. (See Exhibit 6; Rove Concepts website print-offs). As the same examples demonstrate, you are also making unauthorized commercial use of the “Eames,” “Charles Eames,” and “Ray Eames” names.

As your own YouTube video promotion acknowledges, “these furniture designs … have achieved an iconic status, easily recognizable by … furniture admirers all around the world,” and your products are “reproductions” of those designs.<sup>1</sup> The public associates these iconic designs, however, with Herman Miller, and only Herman Miller. Your unauthorized uses of the “Eames,” “Charles Eames,” and “Ray Eames” names, the EAMES® trademark and Herman Miller’s trade dresses violate federal and state law. Specifically, your use of Herman Miller’s trademark and trade dresses violates 15 U.S.C. §11114 and §1125 because consumers are likely to mistakenly believe that you are affiliated, connected, or associated with Herman Miller, and that Herman Miller has originated, sponsored, or otherwise approved of your knockoff furniture. Consequently, Herman Miller demands that you immediately:

- 1) cease and desist all use of the names “Eames,” “Charles Eames,” and “Ray Eames,” the use of the term “Eames” as a metatag or menu item, and any and all other attempts to palm-off the good will Herman Miller has built up in the EAMES® trademark;
- 2) cease and desist advertising, depicting, offering for sale, and selling knock offs of the EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman, which includes the furniture depicted in Exhibit 6;
- 3) cease and desist advertising, depicting, offering for sale, and selling knock offs of the EAMES® Aluminum Group™ and EAMES® Soft Pad™ furniture, which includes the furniture depicted in Exhibit 6;
- 4) transport all existing inventory of the knockoff furniture depicted in Exhibit 6 to the undersigned attorney for immediate destruction;
- 5) destroy any specialized equipment or molds used to manufacture the knockoff furniture depicted in Exhibit 6;
- 6) disclose in writing to the undersigned attorney all contact information for the vendor(s) of the knockoff furniture identified in Exhibit 6, which includes but is not limited to the full corporate name, corporate address, factory address, telephone numbers, fax numbers, e-mail addresses, and the names and business addresses of all the principles of the vendor(s);
- 7) provide to the undersigned attorney in writing an accounting of all profit that you have garnered from the sale of the knockoff furniture identified in Exhibit 6; and

- 8) verify in writing that you will no longer infringe Herman Miller's EAMES® trademark or Herman Miller's EAMES® Lounge Chair and Ottoman, Aluminum Group™ and Soft Pad™ trade dresses.

 Herman Miller      Eames® Soft Pad and Aluminum Group Chairs

PROFILES IN COMFORT

To ensure seated comfort, Charles and Ray Eames suspended a continuous piece of seat-back upholstery between lightweight aluminum side ribs and stretched the upholstery tautly around each end of the frame. Whether upholstered in fabric, leather, vinyl, or an innovative mesh material that allows the chair to breathe, the result is appropriate firmness with just the right flexibility.

TRAITS THAT ENDURE

Herman Miller began making Charles and Ray Eames' Aluminum Group chairs in 1958. Eleven years later, the Eameses extended the original design by adding plush, individually upholstered cushions. They named these the Soft Pad chairs, and Herman Miller has been making both versions ever since. Their simple lines, innovative use of materials, and suspension comfort work together to keep them in continuous demand.

A STATEMENT OF EXCELLENCE

The slender, sophisticated Aluminum Group and its cushioned cousin the Soft Pad bear the distinctive stamp of Charles and Ray Eames—a graceful, unmistakable appearance coupled with an uncanny ability to sit equally well in retro interiors, elegant lobbies, or hip young companies. Never being ones to favor style over substance, Charles and Ray gave both designs an innovative suspension for a firm, flexible “sitting pocket” that subtly conforms to the body’s shape. Add executive, management, side, and lounge models, and there’s everything you need for a statement of timeless design excellence.

COMPLEMENTARY SELECTIONS

Since they evolved from a common design idea, Aluminum Group and Soft Pad chairs have a strong family resemblance. They also share related features.

Executive and management models have seat-height adjustment and tilt-swivel and are available with casters or glides.

Charles and Ray Eames

Lounge chairs feature glides and are available with tilt-swivel or swivel and with or without arms; matching ottomans are also available.

Arms, frames, and bases are brightly polished aluminum with clear urethane coating.

Cygnus™ mesh material, available on all Aluminum Group models, combines strong yet supple support with a translucency that highlights the chair's graceful profile.

Soft Pad chair cushions are two-inch-thick urethane foam enclosed with polyester fiber battings.

All chairs feature five-star, die-cast aluminum bases.

Specifications

What makes the Rove Eames Lounge Chair premium reproduction so special?

- Upholstered in 100% full grain Aniline Leather imported from Italy. Over the years we have maintained excellent relationships with our supplier and have an inexhaustible supply of leather finishes/colors. All parts of the chair are made with the same leather grade including piping and buttons.
- Wooden Veneer is First and Seconds grade American Timber. FAS boards are certified to be only the best cuts from the log and produce the least amount of knots. These are sourced exclusively from USA, Canadian and Brazilian companies including Midwest Walnut Company®, Lehmann Lumber® and Hartzell Hardwoods®.

- True to the original the veneer features 7 ply's of cross grained engineered wood and is Kiln dry stabilized to prevent any sort of warping or cracking.
- Wood is finished with a final application of Italian Lacquer. This protects the wood and gives it the most natural look possible, ensuring the color will not fade over time. A total of 4 coats are applied.
- PU-Injected foam cushions are dacron wrapped. This results in a extremely comfortable chair with the highest level of durability.
- Rubber Shock Mount plating underneath the arm connects the back and base of the chair allowing for flex. The wrong shock mounts used will compromise the comfort of this design.
- Standard Herman Miller cast base and back braces comes in a high polished bright aluminum trim. Also customizable in the full Vitra aluminum base.
- Full original specifications and details are incorporated into our design, there simply is no discernable difference in the quality between the authentic chairs and our lounger.
- This item is not an original Charles & Ray Eames Lounge chair, nor is it manufactured by or affiliated with Herman Miller.

Hi Brian,

Thank you for contacting us. We want to confirm your email was received and we have relayed the information to the appropriate party.

It is however the case that they are away until September 18. Would it be a reasonable request to extend our reply time frame to that date for this reason?

In the meantime please don't hesitate to contact us again if required.

Eames Lounge Chair Comparison

Overall Shape

The overall shape of the Eames lounge chair, is subtle but mistakes in low grade copies are glaring when you hold them side by side with a Rove Concepts reproduction of the design. The angle of the chair, the tufting on the cushion, the color of the leathers and veneer, all contribute to the overall look on this chair.

Beautiful veneers from eco-friendly sources.

Armrests

Armrest is sleek thin profile. Shape is contoured correctly. True to original. Underneath the armrest we use the same rubber shock mount used in the original. This piece is extremely important to create the proper flex while sitting back on the chair.

The Finer Details

The Rove Concepts reproduction cuts no corners, even in places hard to notice by most people. Rove features double sided veneers, both the outside and inside are fully veneered with imported wood veneers. You will also notice the cushion locking mechanism featured here. This design was meant to be a chair that has easily interchangeable parts. The way our cushions are secured to the veneer is engineered to match the original – to the extent you can actually swap cushions with an original eames.

No Leather Spared

You can see deep tufting lines on the Rove version. This deep tufting is only achievable by using generous amounts of high grade leather, and the most expensive type of foam. Using the correct foam, the Eames lounge chair looks exactly as it should and even more importantly, sits as comfortably as it should. It is common for low cost knock offs to save on leather cost by stretching out the leather, and using an economic foam. The result is a flat look that lacks dimension and character intended by the original design.

secured to the veneer is engineered to match the original – to the extent you can actually swap cushions with an original eames.

A cheap version uses glue, Velcro, or nails to secure the cushion to the veneer. The inside veneer is never finished. This is visible under the armrest.

Watch Out!

There are a few things to lookout for when buying a reproduction Eames Lounge Chair.

- ✖ Angle of the chair is far too upright and does not provide the flex while leaning back
- ✖ Does not use the correct rubber shock mount underneath the armrest to create flex
- ✖ Often made with half corrected grain leathers, which is hard, rough to the touch and unnatural feeling
- ✖ The armrest is bulky and the armrest padding is hard and uncomfortable
- ✖ Cushions are usually attached to the unfinished veneer with glue, Velcro or nails. Request pictures of how the cushions are attached before purchasing from a cheap retailer.
- ✖ Uses economical foams that become flattened with everyday wear, which makes them uncomfortable and unattractive
- ✖ Lack of joint flex and incorrect rubber shock mounts sacrifices cost for comfort, most cheaper companies will not even have a rubber shock mount.
- ✖ Without any protective coating on the wood shell, colors will fade
- ✖ Generally made with cheaper wood materials that crack or scratch easy
